Kitchen Millennium[®]

Kitchen Millennium[®] towels are so thirsty, that just one can soak up an entire glass of water.

The special weave of microfiber creates absorbent channels that quickly draw in and trap liquids, leaving surfaces completely dry.

Kitchen Millennium[®] towels and dishcloths are excellent for general household cleaning, too. Used dry, the fibers attract dirt and dust like a magnet and trap it inside the towel. Use damp to clean grease, grime, smudges and more.

DID YOU KNOW?

Microfiber created from a blend of polyester and nylon is split to create polyester wedges with nylon spokes. The polyester wedges scrape away microscopic dirt and germs while the nylon spokes create a capillary action that absorbs liquids almost twice as effectively as cotton.

Also, the spaces between the “wedges” and the “spokes” act as holding chambers for liquids, enabling microfiber to hold up to seven times its weight in water!
